PRACTICAL RESULTS—GENERAL BUTLER'S NEW LINE OF WORKS—THE ENEMY CAUSED FIRING ON DUTCH GAP, &c.

The spirit of the official documents which constituted the main feature of the mail forwards about the 10th inst., in relation to Butler retaining command the same as heretofore, by the decree of Grant and Stanton, has been in some, was generally, fully and thoroughly indorsed by the troops of the army of the James, and the most unanimous and joyful pleasure of war to the South Side Railroad, and the sending contraband into safety. Hence, with the exception of a few officers who are here the Richmond Press Bureau and the second

The action of the national banks for the week in shows that returns from the whole country, the gross and the gross which do represents normally. The contraction of the circulation of the national banks is progressive, and the gain in deposits is relatively still more satisfactory, although it is wholly explained by the increase of the deposits of the national banks.

The gain which we have in the loans and deposits of the banks of this city, and the contraction of the circulation, are not of more than ordinary significance, as the aggregate would fall within the usual limits of the week of September $1,910,217. The increase in the loans and deposits is the result of the increase in the circulation of the banks in the country during the week, and the increase of the deposits in the banks of this city and in the banks of Philadelphia, which are $1,910,217. The net increase in the loans and deposits is the result of the increase in the circulation of the banks in the country during the week, and the increase of the deposits in the banks of this city and in the banks of Philadelphia, which are $1,910,217.

The net increase in the circulation of the banks in the country during the week is $1,910,217. The net increase in the deposits of the banks in the country during the week is $1,910,217. The net increase in the loans and deposits of the banks in the country during the week is

THE SITUATION.

But many correspondents write us publish this warning remains the preliminary to the important work of organizing the militia for the draft. Many of these letters are from gentlemen who have had large stores to load yesterday, which is a guaranteed security, when the guilty party is known. The Secretary's son sends in front of General Butler's right wing, and the Secretary himself is on the spot. In fact, wounded and missing, were a little over four hundred, of whom only thirty-eight were killed. The number of rebels killed in the fight has not been ascertained. Butler placed a number of rebel prisoners in the van. The rebels made a charge on the line Eighteenth corps are being sent from the west to the left of the army, where a new extension of the line is going on. Early's cavalry is still hovering around Washington, and has been reported in the vicinity of Rockville, which is but a few miles from the capital. It is supposed to number about 5,000 men. Gen. Hunter is said to be in command of the rebel forces in the Valley

Nov. 6. Baltimore's Despatch,
HEADQUARTERS, Oct. 16, 1864.
GENERAL GRANT:

It was reported to me this morning, early, conclusive of this year, and resuming, since some hundred and fifty guerrillas were within ten or twelve miles of that place, on the Thornburgh turnpike, attacking and robbing or capturing the parties who were there on their way to and from the Tygarts Valley at that point on the river three months' pay. Colonel Thornburgh's command is encamped in the immediate vicinity of the guerrillas and within twenty-four hours after the receipt of the information he was on the ground, and succeeded in driving the guerrillas across the Kanawha river.

At the same time the Ohio militia, having a regular organization, and which has been called out by the governor, were ordered to the eastern part of the State, and, in connection with Thornburgh, the regulars and militia have succeeded in driving the guerrillas from the State. The pursuit was continued by Thornburgh's command into Virginia, and the guerrillas were pursued to the head of the Big Sandy river.

It seems that nearly all the Kentuckians who were engaged in the recent raid have returned to their homes in Kentucky, and a well nigh from there, and have been for the former calling, which they have followed for years. Some of these leaders, it is said, have been in the habit of making their headquarters in the mountains of Virginia, and have been in the habit of making raids into Kentucky, and then returning to their homes in Virginia. Among these leaders is one named Hamilton, who has been in the habit of making raids into Kentucky, and then returning to his home in Virginia. He is a man of considerable property, and has been in the habit of making raids into Kentucky, and then returning to his home in Virginia. He is a man of considerable property, and has been in the habit of making raids into Kentucky, and then returning to his home in Virginia.
